THE NATIONAL SHRINE OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION WASHINGTON, D.C.

This impressive Shrine is built in the form of a Latin cross. Contemporary in style, yet with strong classical influences, it harmonizes perfectly with other beautiful buildings in The Nation's Capital. It is built entirely of stone, brick, tile and concrete. There is no steel skeleton or frame work in its construction. This was the method used in medieval cathedrals. Guided tours which take approximately 45 minutes start every half hour. The Shrine is open to visitors every day of the week, from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

A CAPSCO

Dear Connie,

I'm here in Wash. D.C. with some girls from school — we came yesterday. This place is beautiful & I wish you could see this — I didn't understand any of the service of course
